

OWL 1974

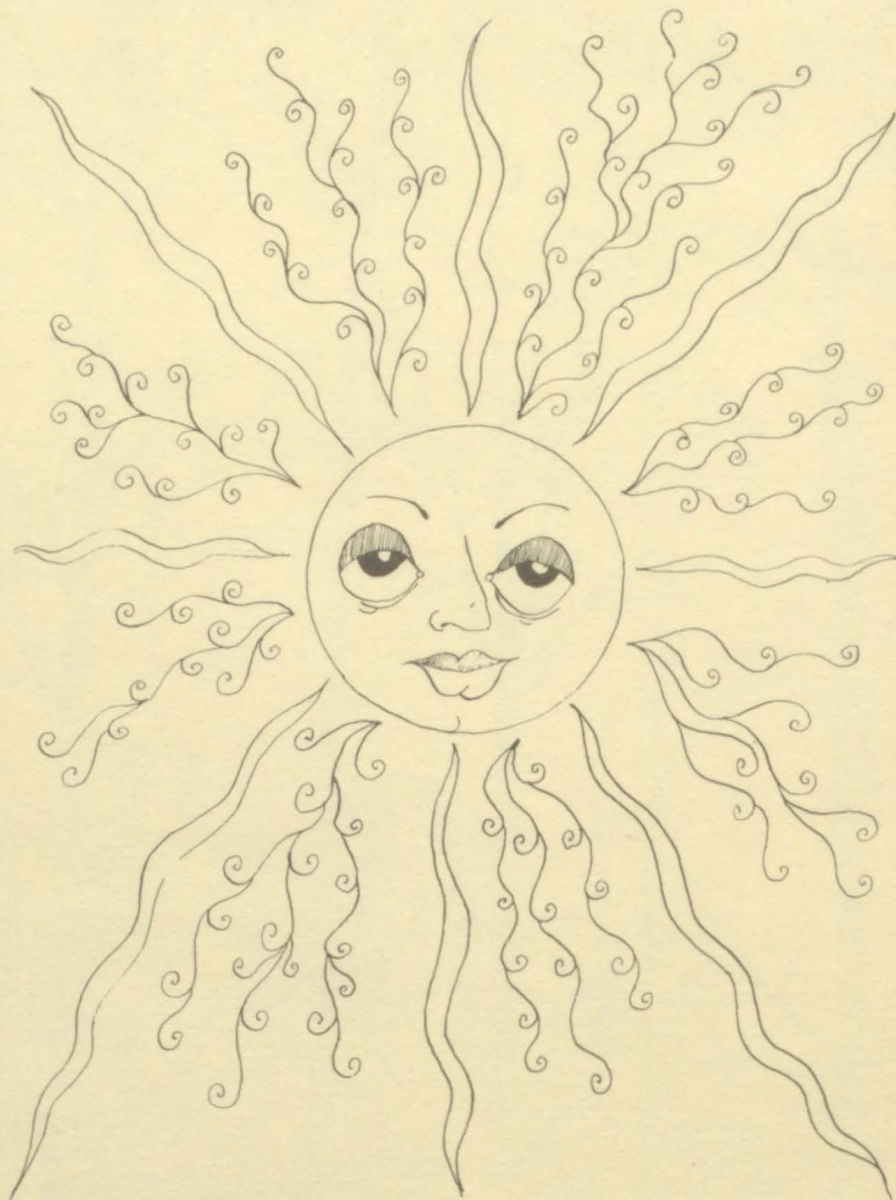

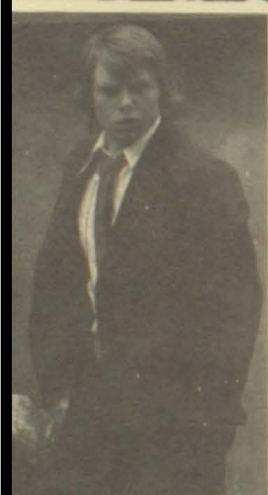

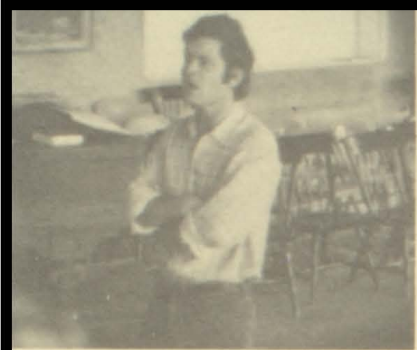

THIS IS A BOOK
AT A MOMENT, TO EXPOSE SONGS
AT A TIME, TO EXPRESS THE INNER UNIVERSE
AT A PLACE, WHERE WORDS ARE MUCH NEEDED.

HOOSAC SCHOOL

HOOSICK, NEW YORK

1974 OWL

Winking through mountains,
climbing over clouds,
a ring of a bell,
the hug of a sunburst,
and the flames of life

One begins the other.
The other ends the one.
The one starts slowly.
The other ends rapidly.

SIXTH FORM

Got to keep on truckin'

breeze trying to stifle a sneeze? People walking with an inner beat down crowded city streets: yellow light-slow, green light-go, red light---stop. Try to learn the new bop, tried to find a job at the neighborhood store but the manager figured that I wasn't really poor.

Back on the street later on that night feeling slick, looking sleek, like a fighter at his peak, a look of approval from tenants down your stairs fluffing afro hairs and doing reds in pairs, music reaches your ears as you touch concrete.

It's a hit tune of your peers so you put a raincheck on the beat and start to shuffle your feet to get where you're to meet a nice female treat.

Broken glass crushing into your new platform soles, you wince at the sound, a new dent in your soul.

A couple of more reds to straighten out your head, you're about to leave and fly when you open just one eye and through the haze of reds and snow you just begin to know, you never even made it to the door.

Alonzo Sidney Whitehead

I have a house that is black like me, with its black walls, black floors, and ceilings and doors.

It's a proud black house and as quiet as a mouse.

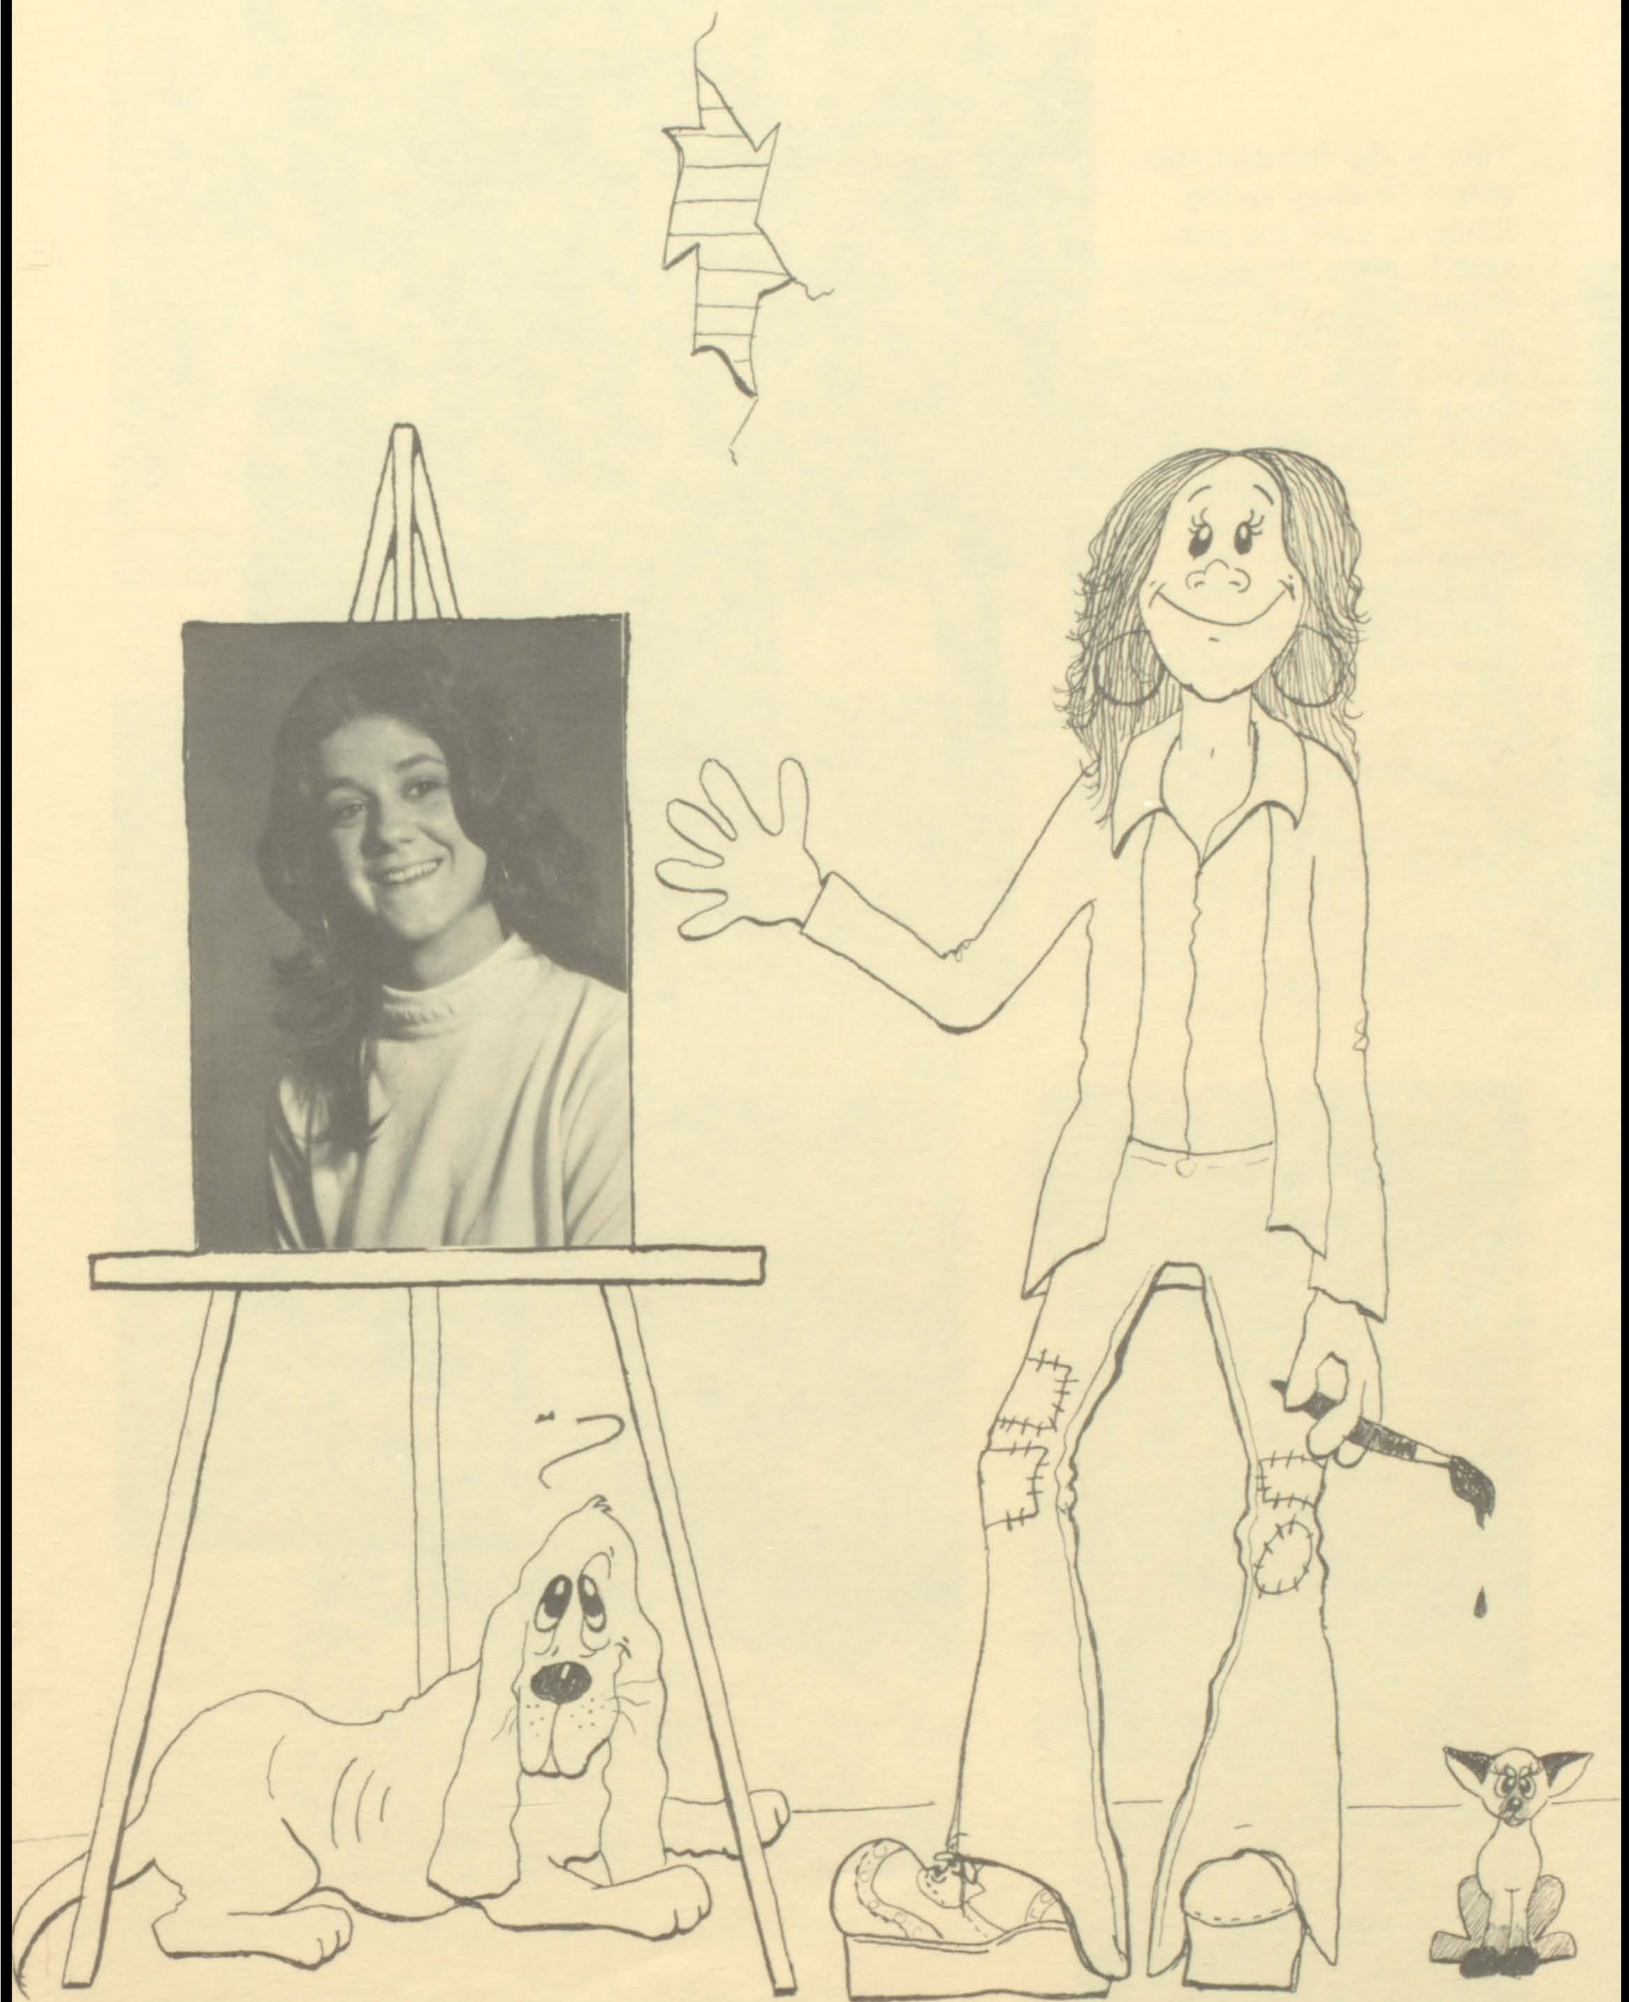

I go to my closet, also black, and retrieve a black jacket to cover my back.

I approach my black door, and I touch a black knob I open my door and exit from my house, relaxed and ready to go.

I stand on my porch, black wood beneath my feet I stand black and proud, but as my eyes look out, my pride turns to sorrow, cause the last thing I expected was, white snow.

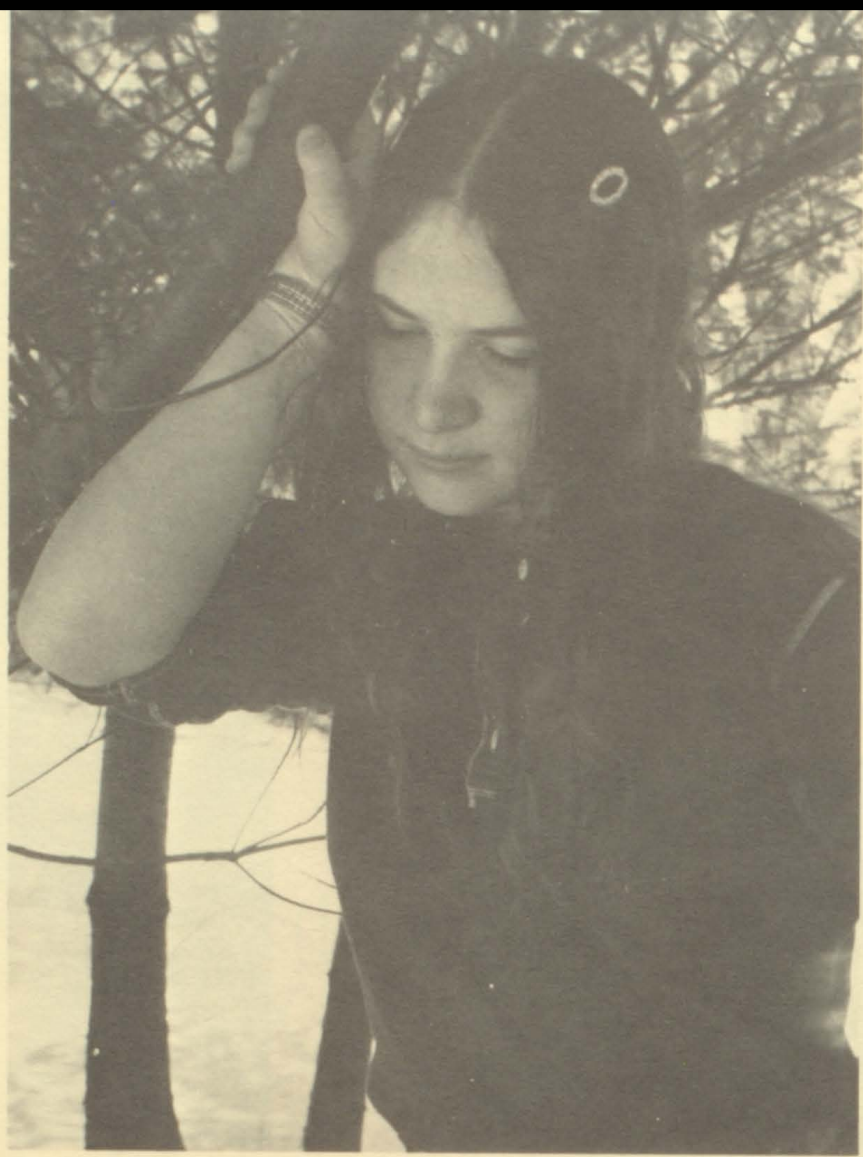

Ever try to walk to beat out the hawk? Or walk with the

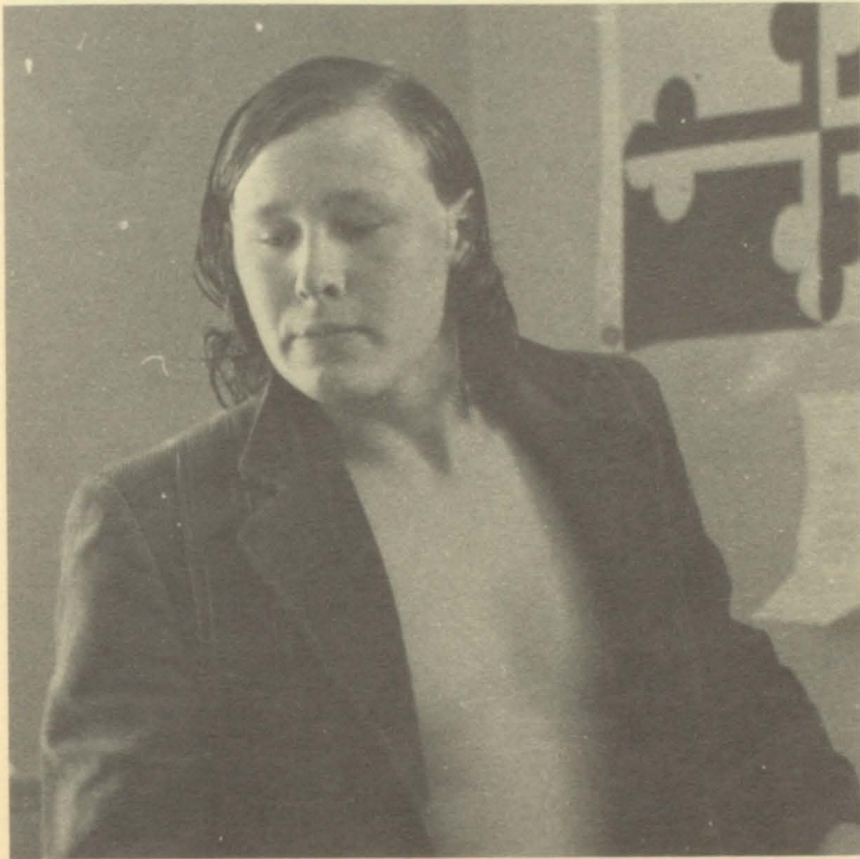

by April Wear

This is the freedom life grants to every living thing; to each the passion to grow, to develop alone, through one's own efforts, that all life shall flourish. Some will never reach their full potential, but the leaves of one will never be stripped and given to another; the roots will not be arrested that another may grow, for wealth and the capacity for greatness cannot be absorbed they must come from within.

O. ELIZABETH TOWNE

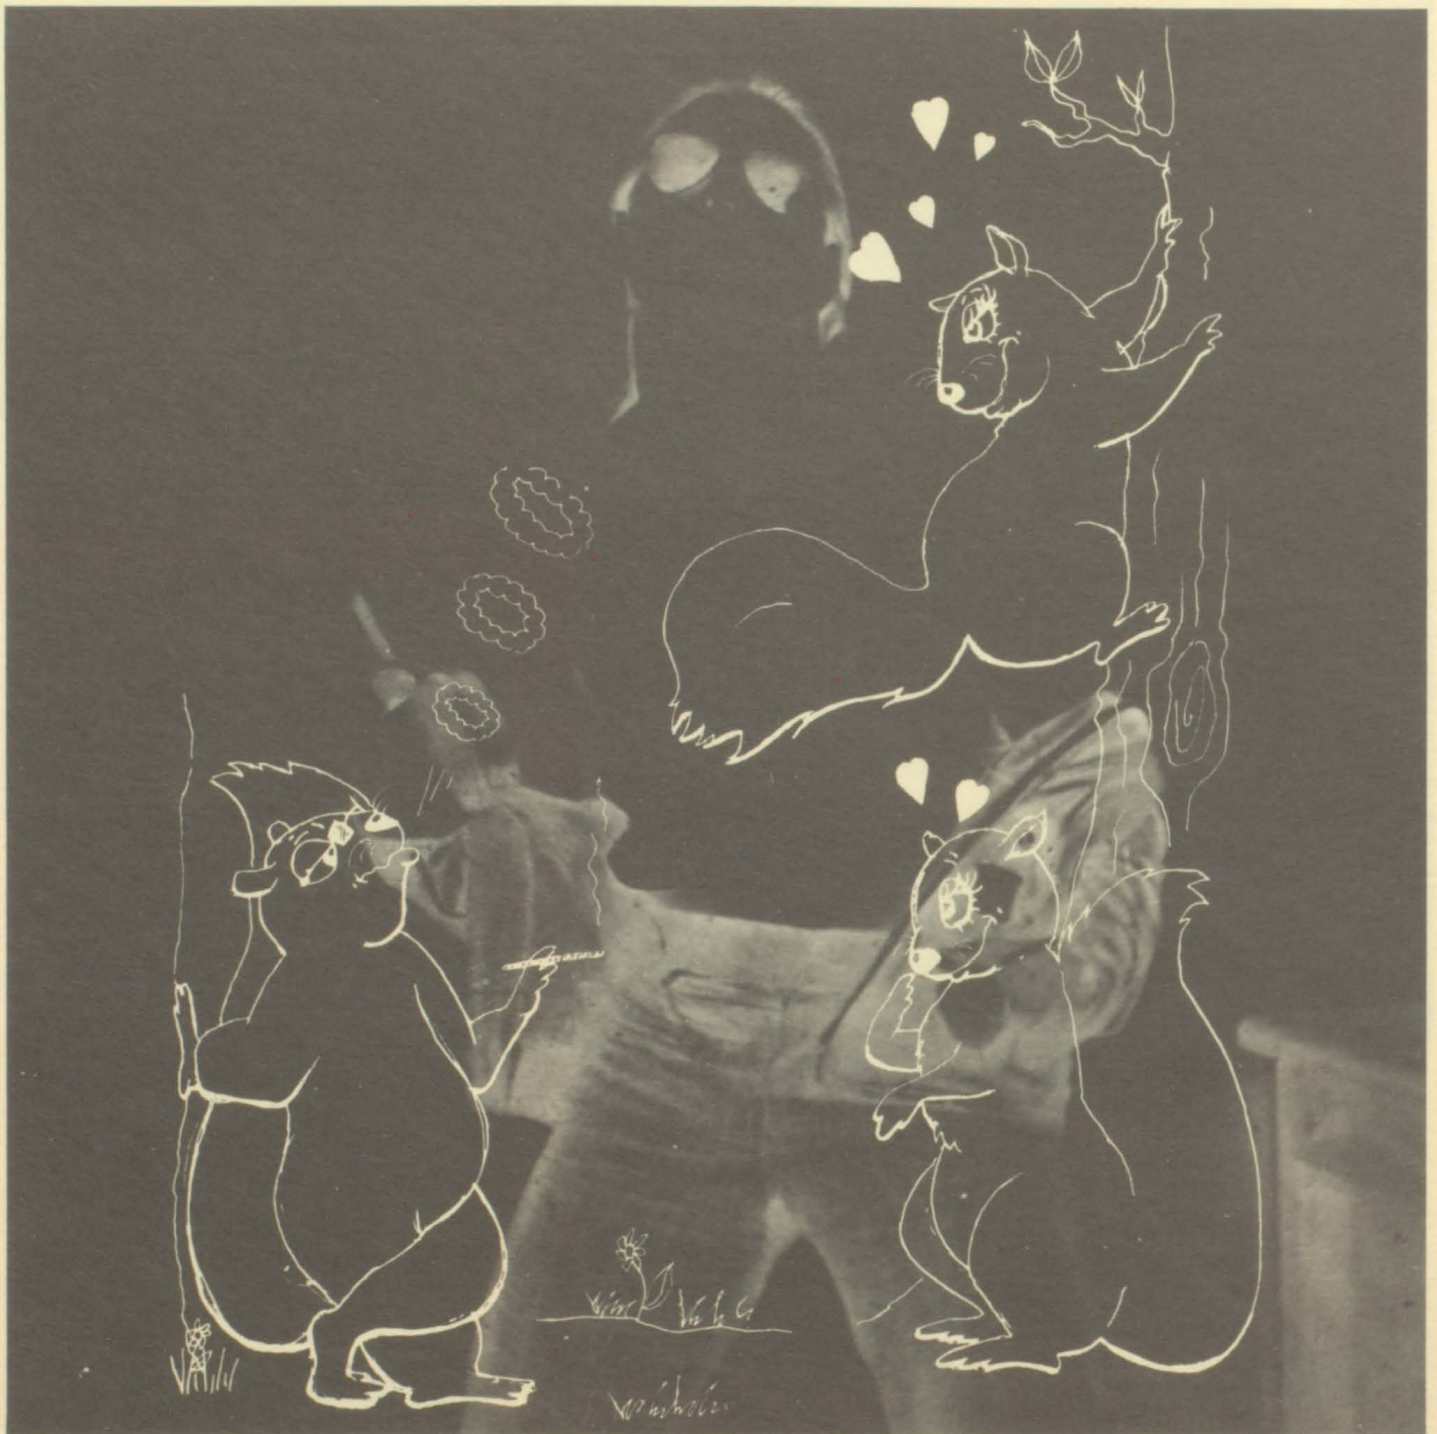

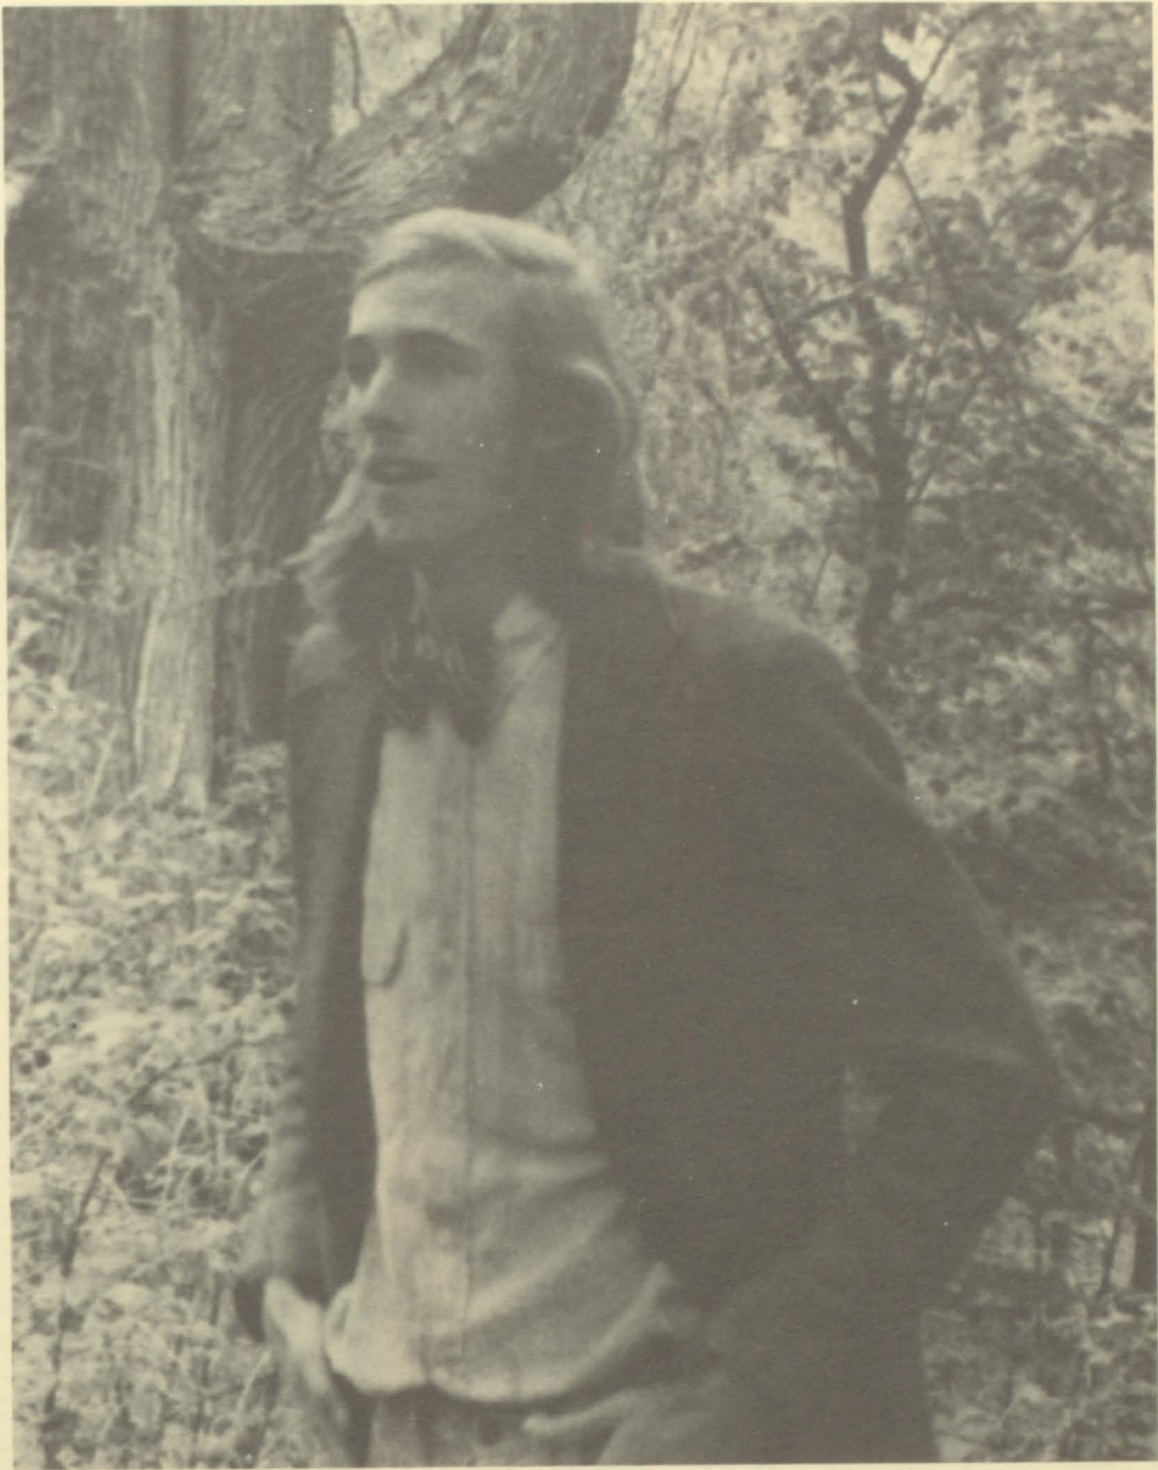

If everybody was somebody,
there wouldn't be anybody
to be nobody.

DOUGLAS HIRD TAYLOR

In a lot of yearbooks,
people write a bunch of JUNK.
But I'm not going to, so time's a wastin'
Bye Hoosac,
don't forget to write.

George Harrison

ALLEN MEYER

The only way to solve questions of an ideological nature or controversial issues among the people is by the democratic method, the method of discussion, or criticism, or persuasion and education, and not by the method of coercion or repression.

Mao Tse Tung

Surfing, soccer,
and the old same place
are the three greatest sports
in the world.

GEORGE E. McALLISTER

Dwight Marvin II : Elys Payge

I sit beside the fire and think of people long ago,
and people who will see a world
that I shall never know.

For still there are so many things that I have never seen:
in every wood in every spring
there is a different green.

But all the while I sit and think of times there were before,
I listen for returning feet
and voices at the door.

J.R.R. Tolkein

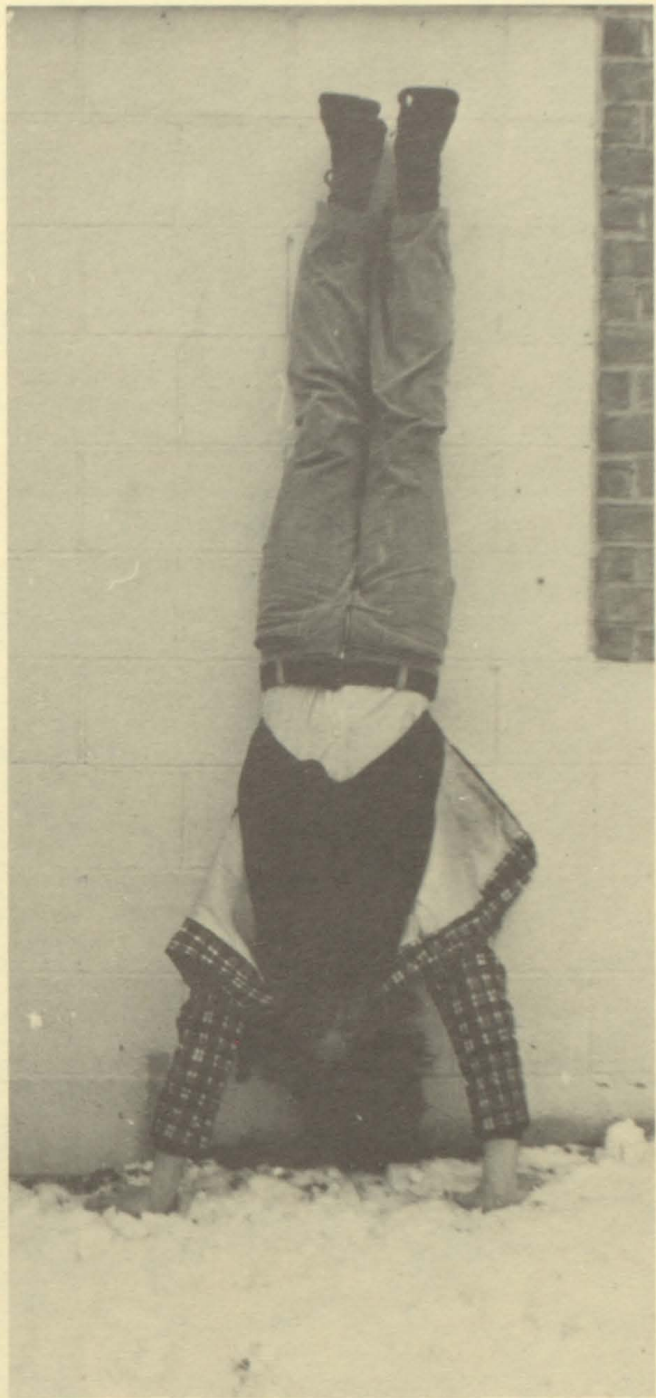

On a wonderful day in the night
of our time,
The beautiful birds tried to sing
their song
And even though the words couldn't rhyme,
The song lasted all day long
And blinding light pierced the dark.

Our people squinted and closed their eyes
They were not yet used to the light
And yet a bird can tell no lies
But can hint at truth and what is right
For light is the source of all life.

Good night you people, you take your rest.
And look at red sun on shining sea.
Now tell me, do you still think you're the best?
It's 4:00 now, time for tea.
Farewell you songbirds never gone!
Maybe someday one will hear your song.

DANIEL PORTER HANNON

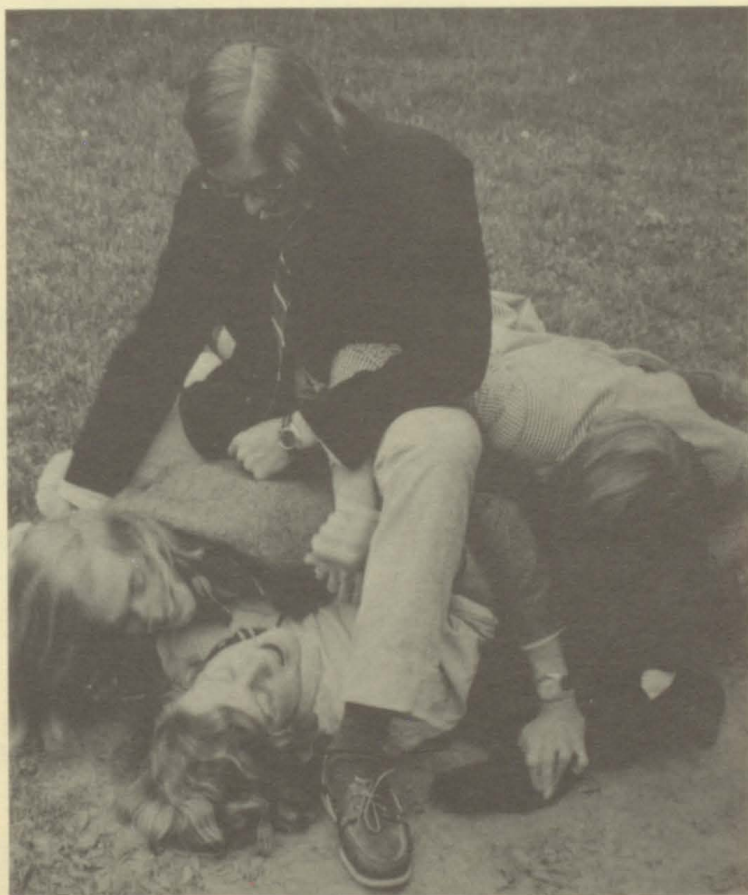

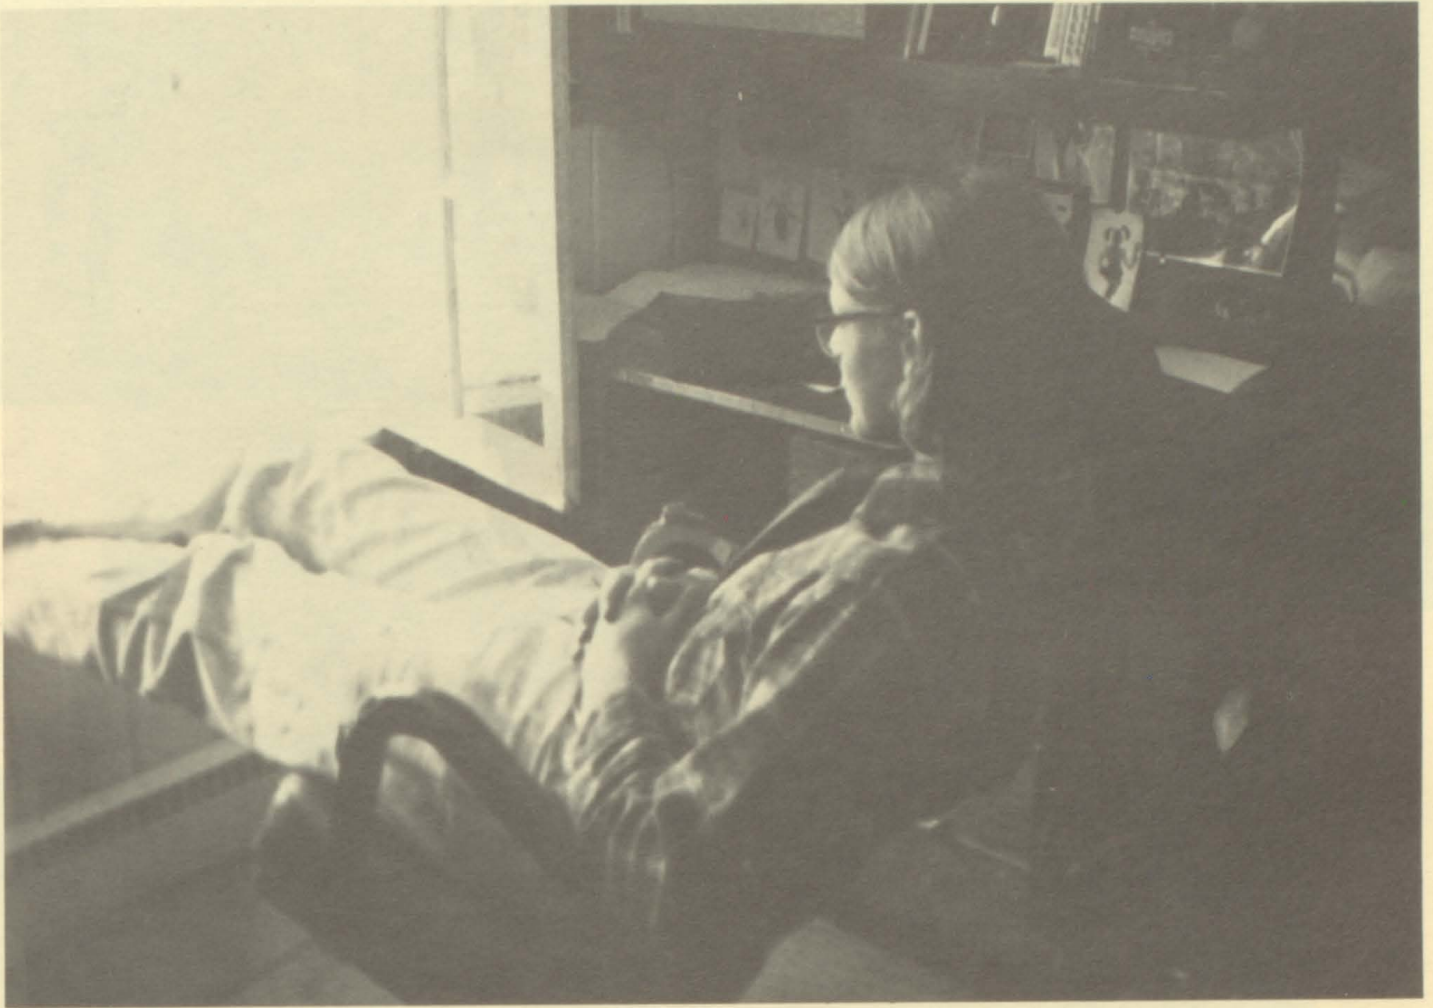

CHRISTOPHER AMBROSE HAMILTON

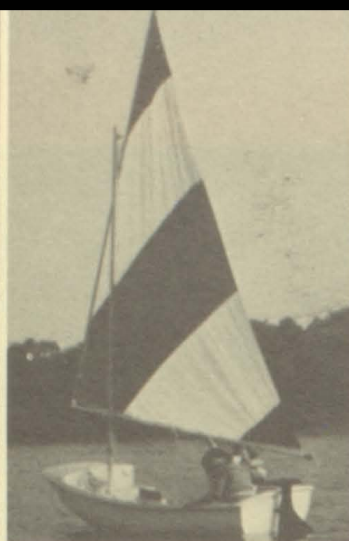

The museum and the library took precedence over human experience!
"Freedom is just another word for nothing left to lose."

Still, I like your hamburgers. Good luck, people.

LOUIS BUSCH HAGER, JR.

Uncovering newness.
Questions may not be directed.
Madness creeps under the skin and into the mind.

It is necessary that our eyes focus past and further beyond each perspective.

feeling every sound
the touch penetrates,
feeling inside,
feeling cycles rotate
and walk the plank of future.
feel the slow touch,
seduce the impossible,
submit to it.

Merging with the universe
the paths are endless.
The fog is bright.
The sun is thick
The stars are endless
and the universe; it is shining.

JAN HADWEN

It is dangerous to go out
in this hellish world,
but it is still more dangerous
to hide in the bushes.

JEFFERY KENNER GILCHRIEST

Happy are those who dream dreams and are ready to pay the price to make them come

Looking back upon these years,
Thinking about all those fears,
I stop. I say to myself quite strong,
"This was the place I didn't belong-

LAWRENCE WITHERSPOON DICKEY

by Spoon Dickey

- Last will & testament -

Here stand I -
 Ordinary man, head in hand.
 Tell me true... what do you think;
 Good, bad, lost in his world?

My heads been twirled
 Spun on a pointed stick
 The prick of pain at dawn -
 When I rise.
 Lights' stabbing deep - behind my eyes.
 Monotonous days on end
 Lonliness befriends my hungry soul
 And goads me to a style untrue -
 And how about you??

So bury me deep
 Let me rest - but
 Best to let me sleep -
 I've dealt with this ordeal -
 And oh... to be happy all the days of my life.

Peter's Game

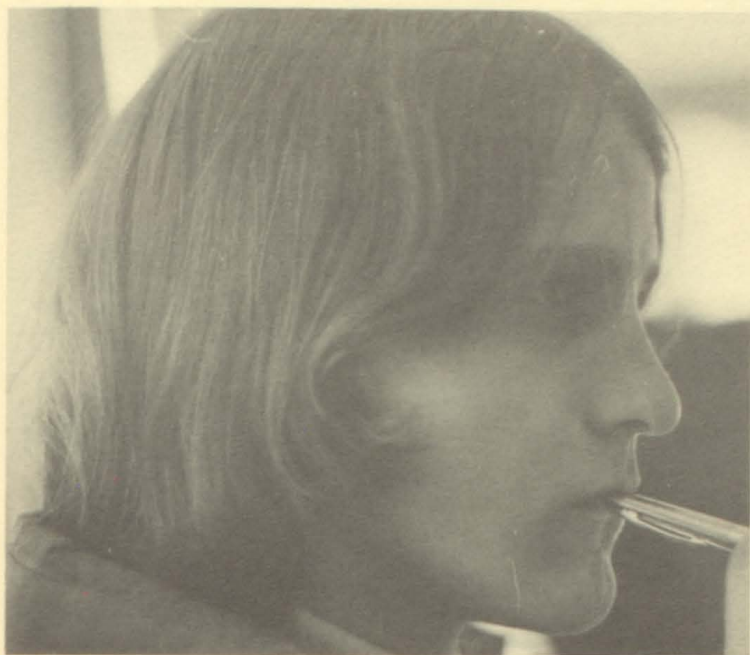

Peter's a man - a heart of steel -
 A conscience built like a roulette wheel
 He plays a game - or so I'm told
 And the stakes he rakes are more than gold
 He gambles for souls

Come to the gate, arching so high
 Bring on your soul, you're lucky to try Deal the deck - then take the stand
 "And how did you deal with your fellow man?"
 ... you lost the first hand!

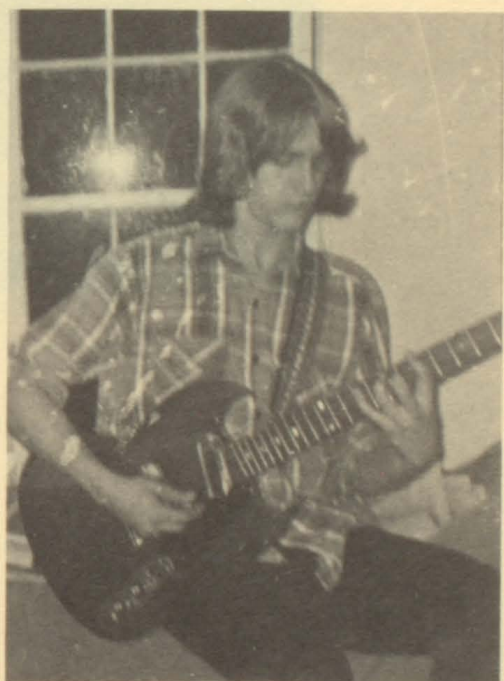

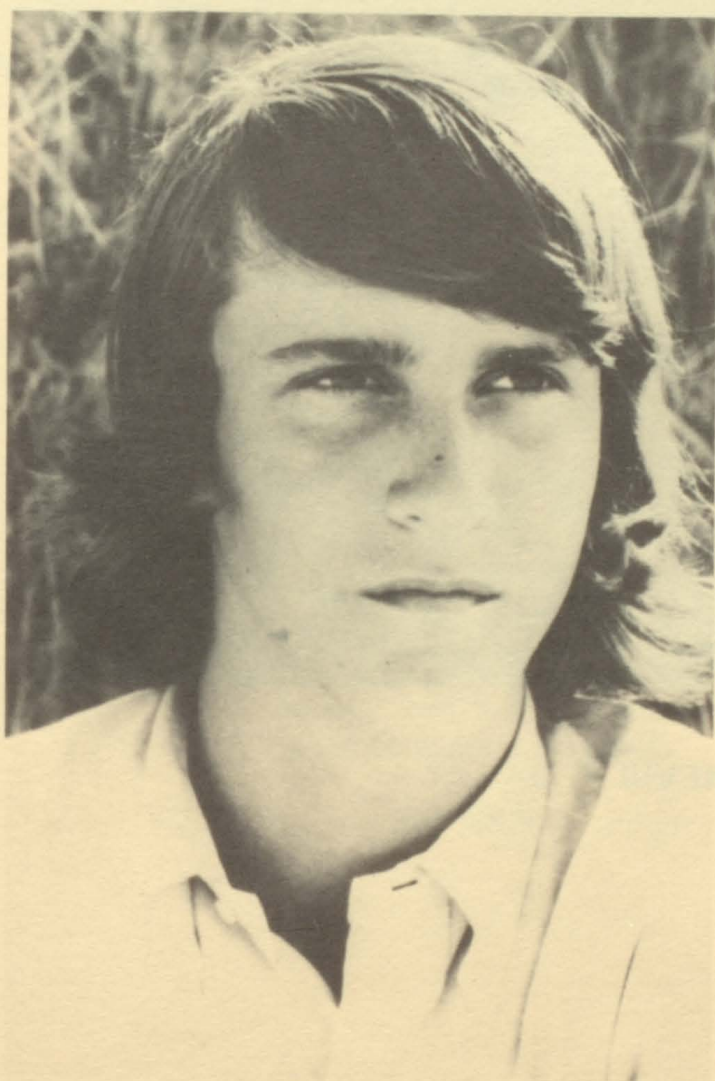

Now his turn, the cards are dealt -
 "When an enemy hit you, tell how you felt"
 You wanted to kill, to have his head
 Whoops - you lost - why not kiss him instead -
 Like our saviour, now dead.

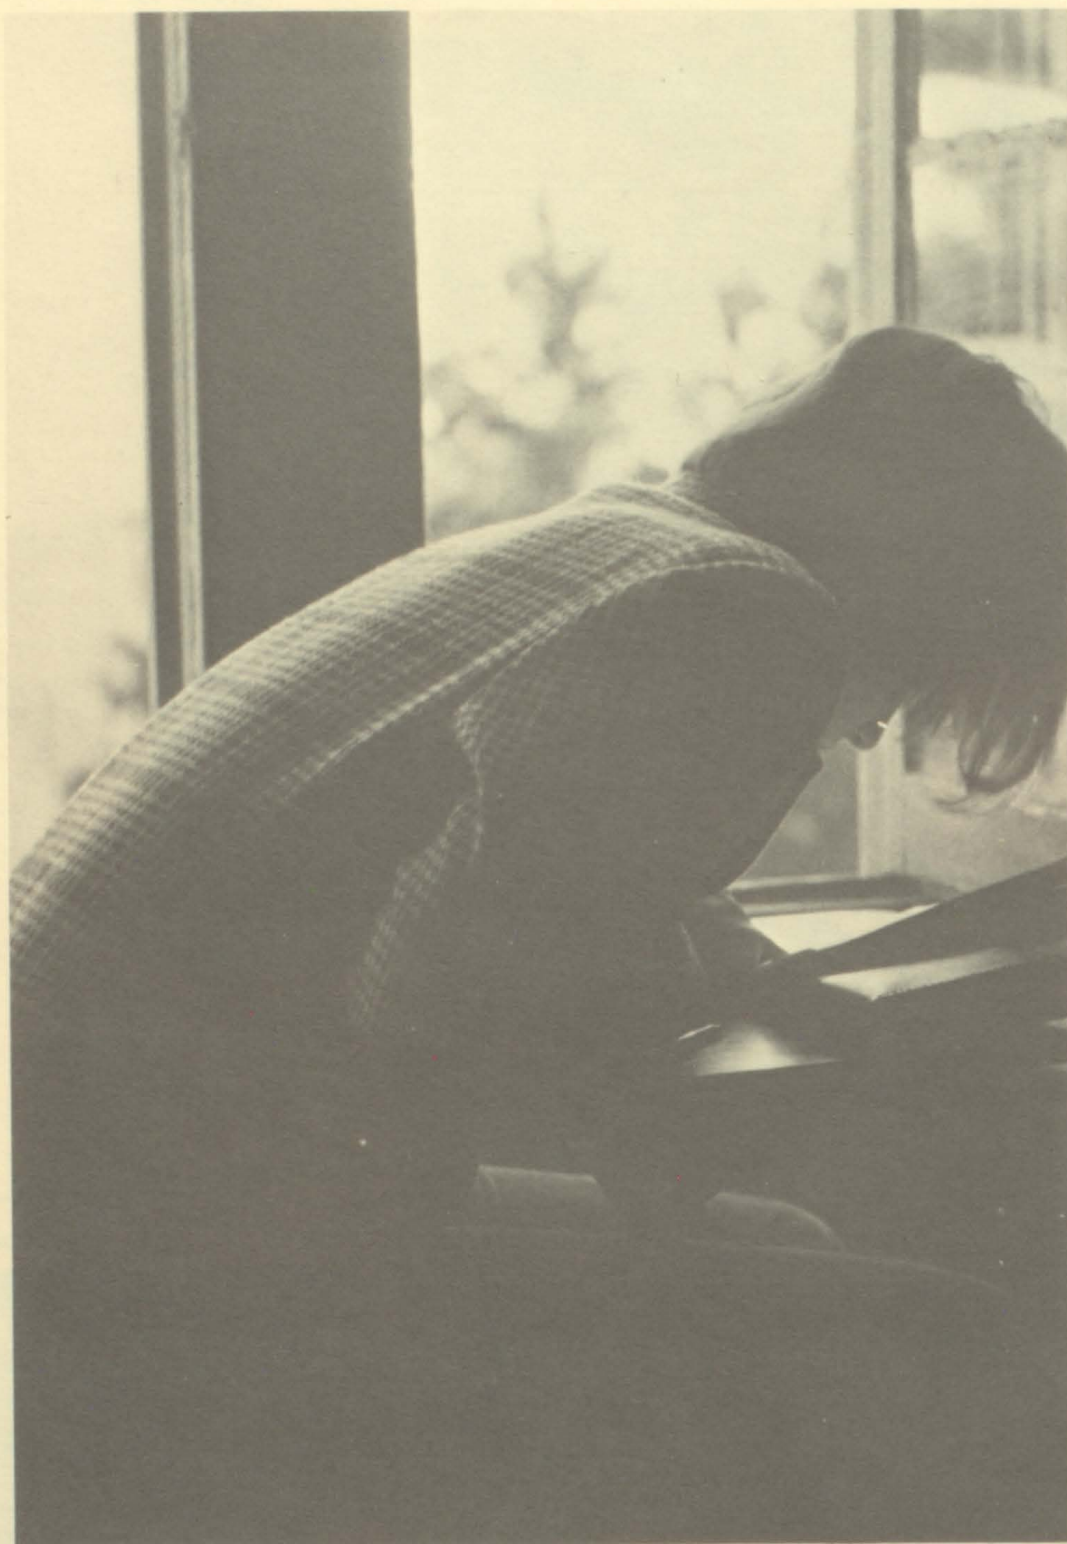

"What a game," you cry out loud.
 "Am I to be perfect, or is feeling allowed -"
 "Not at all you fool - you fell."
 "And for ages to come, you'll be burning in hell."
 Ain't that Swell??

(The Devil made me do it)

Brother, reach out your hand to me. I think I can stand; I know I must try to find the reason why. It's your world if you want it. Don't throw it away. Stand up now for what you think is right. The system's not too old or strong to fight. Democracy's for you, and they are afraid of your power to make a new day.

JV SOCCER

JV or not JV; that was the question,
 Whether 'twas nobler, in the mind, to play
 Under this lesser title, or not to play at all.
 Not all good men can make Varsity--
 In fact more promise lies beneath the top.
 So forward strived we all, and tied the league
 In a three way knot. Our quest for Victory was not, by anything, hampered as we played.
 To start, to practice as we learned the skills--
 And by devotion, manifest our wills.
 Our won/lost record shows, for all to see
 The strength comprising next year's varsity.

BALLAD ON INTRAMURAL SOCCER

School time here at Hoosac
 Got those "hit them books" blues
 Classes dragging on, lasting half the day,
 Keep thoughts from going astray.

Ah, classes are through, no more delay
 Nothing left to stop you now
 Nothing to bar the way
 Head for the dorm, undressing as you go
 Reach your room, don your soccer clothes.

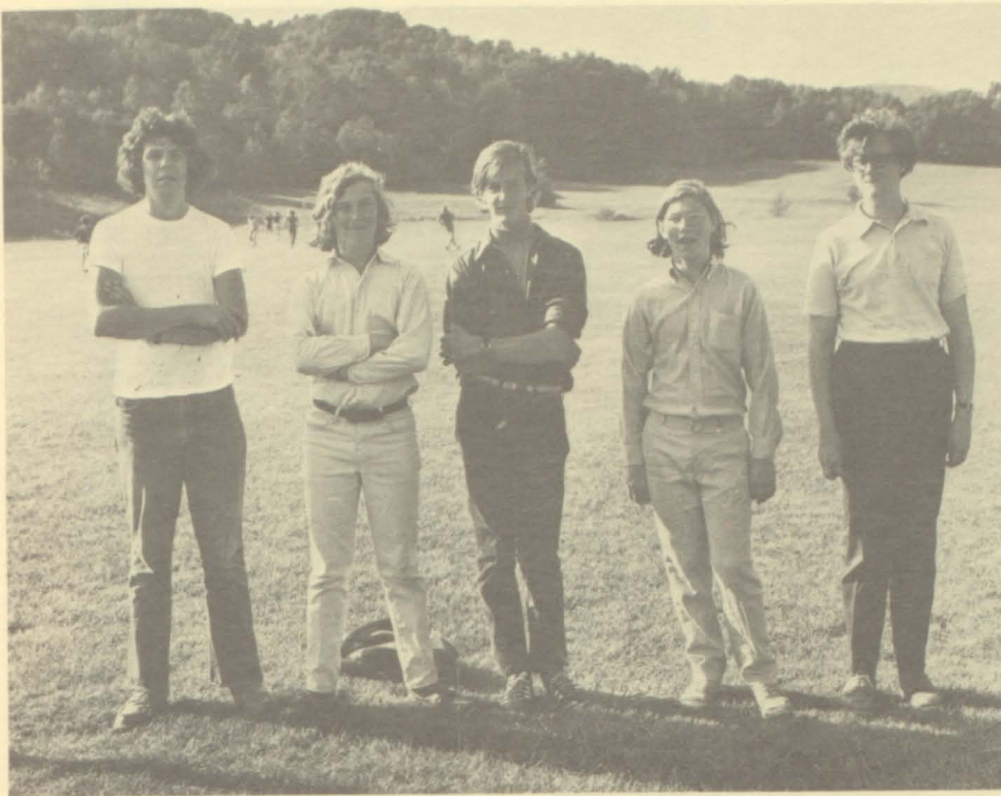

Now you're on the field
 All eighteen of you, eighteen strong Rough looking, competitive, restless
 Just raring to get it on.

Group split in half by leader Dechame,
 The game gets under way
 Dave in one goal, Billy in the other,
 Harold kicks to Peewee who passes in turn
 To Alonzo, up ahead on the run.

Games goes on, points are scored
 Now everyone's tired, some bored
 At the end we rejoice with a win
 And head for the dorm.

But we'll be back again
 And once more again compete
 Til we're worn out and beat
 But it's all part of being a team.
